FOREWORD FROM THE CHAIRMAN

Mohamed Khalifa Al Mubarak

We can proudly look back on 2019 as a year in which Abu Dhabi confirmed itself to be a world-leading cultural city. The depth and diversity of all our cultural endeavours have been inspirational and have continued to anchor our city in its heritage while nurturing creativity and building capacity of the culture sector.

2019 was also a year in which we looked to the future, with the development of a five-year cultural strategy to strengthen and enhance the culture sector’s foundations and infrastructure. The strategic objectives were defined based on a rich legacy and targeting ambitious goals. Preserving our heritage is one of our key objectives and the Department emphasised our initiatives related to the conservation of the emirate’s modern heritage, as well as the dissemination of Intangible Cultural Heritage that celebrates the achievements of our recent past. Development of guidelines, regulations, financial and non-financial incentives to celebrate, protect, and maintain our cultural heritage were clearly defined for the next five years.

With these strong foundations in place, we remain focused on growing a sustainable culture sector that contributes to economic growth and diversification. Hence, we are dedicated to further nurturing the market, creating a lasting social and economic impact, and extending the culture value chain to include the dissemination and transfer of knowledge, capacity building and strong cultural partnerships across the world.

The execution of the Culture Sector Strategy will not only position Abu Dhabi as a global cultural capital but as a key driver of economic change. Our aim will be to track the contributions of the cultural creative industries to the city and be able to quantify the socio-economic impact of the culture sector to the nation.

Therefore, and as we look forward to 2020 and our preparations for the 50th anniversary of the United Arab Emirates in 2021, we are proud to share our vision on the way to preserve and promote the cultural heritage and identity of Abu Dhabi to both those living here and the international audience. We anticipate another fruitful year, in which we can increase the understanding of Abu Dhabi’s unique culture, both in its heritage and future manifestations, and welcoming more visitors to experience our culture and to visit our emirate.
FOREWORD FROM THE ACTING UNDERSECRETARY

The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi believes in the importance of the role that culture plays in transforming our society at all levels. Our Culture Sector is firmly dedicated to enhancing the cultural scene and to curate platforms and programmes to engage with the diverse audience of the United Arab Emirates, with the aim of cementing appreciation of Emirati and Arabian culture at all levels.

In 2019, the Department has organised major cultural events that have translated our mandate in pioneering initiatives to enhance the culture scene and cultural engagement with the public. Abu Dhabi International Book Fair, Abu Dhabi Classics, Abu Dhabi Art and the Culture Summit grew in stature to become the region’s most important cultural events.

Diverse platforms have contributed to the positioning of the Abu Dhabi culture scene including the Louvre Abu Dhabi, Manarat Al Saadiyat and Qasr Al Hosn. An undoubted highlight of the year was the reopening of the Cultural Foundation at the Al Hosn site as a creative and immersive space for cultural expression. Meanwhile, in Al Ain, the museums, cultural centres and UNESCO World Heritage Site proved to be spaces that showcase the richness of Abu Dhabi’s history and heritage. These sites were activated and interpreted through a year-round calendar of exhibitions, festivals, heritage activities and a robust public engagement programme.

We are also making progress in our ongoing projects, including the further development of the Saadiyat Cultural District, with the upcoming Zayed National Museum and Guggenheim Abu Dhabi. Al Ain’s cultural offering will also be bolstered by the restored Bait Mohammed bin Khalifa House, Jebel Hafit Desert Park, Murabba’a Fort and many other new cultural landscapes.

As we look back on our accomplishments, we are firmly focused on the future while promoting the essence of Abu Dhabi both at home and abroad, highlighting its deep heritage and hospitality values, which furthers our mandate to become a world-leading destination of distinction.

CHAPTER 1

VISION AND STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES
The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi’s Culture Sector vision is to create a recognized cultural capital rooted in cultural heritage and creativity, a place where culture is a driver of social and economic development. The Department achieves this vision through its mandate to preserve and promote Abu Dhabi’s cultural heritage, to stimulate creativity through arts and cultural programs, and to build capacity across the sector.

DCT Abu Dhabi’s objectives aim for intellectual and artistic excellence by creating a dynamic and holistic cultural scene with a range of public engagement programmes to nurture creativity and to support growth in the culture and creative industries, one of the fastest growing economic sectors in the world today. Working alongside cultural professionals and specialists, the Department also works to preserve traditional artistic practices, the Emirate cultural heritage and to develop an inspiring and innovative cultural scene.

CULTURE SECTOR STRATEGIC PLAN 2020-2024

The Culture Sector Strategic Plan 2020-2024 seeks to advance Government priorities of enhanced quality of life, city liveability and economic growth and diversification. Preserve and Sustain Abu Dhabi’s Cultural Heritage

Cultural Heritage Policies

In 2019, the Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi developed 26 cultural heritage policy initiatives resulting from the publication of the Cultural Heritage Law in 2016 and the Executive By-Law in 2018. These policies provide a legislative foundation and policy framework to preserve Abu Dhabi heritage and support wider cultural development goals. Implementation of an integrated system of policies and guidelines across 2019-2021 will allow the Culture Sector to contribute to the preservation, dissemination and management of cultural sites. These include policies governing elements of the historic building environment, intangible heritage, collections and licensing museums and galleries.

Development of Abu Dhabi Historic Environment Record (ADHER)

The Modern Heritage Conservation initiative continues to being developed with the aim to protect, maintain and celebrate the recent history of urban development in Abu Dhabi. More than 326 Modern heritage sites have been registered, and the Culture Sector managed to successfully protect modern heritage buildings such as Abu Dhabi Bus Station, Le Méridien, Hilton Abu Dhabi, Hilton Al Ain, UAE University, and Zayed Sports City Stadium to name a few.

Important platforms for intangible heritage practices were created in 2019 to build capacity and support the dissemination of handicrafts skills and heritage practices to the wider audience.

Two House of Artisans were created in Abu Dhabi and Al Ain celebrating the creative and artistic relationship between people of the United Arab Emirates and the locally available natural resources within the diverse landscapes of the UAE.

The new concept of Bait Al Gahwa has also been developed to translate an in-depth exploration of Arabic coffee distinctive technique. Bait Al Gahwa was curated to present to the public the different stages of the Arabic Gahwa making including roasting, cooling, grounding, and brewing the coffee, all interpreted in traditional tools and techniques.

Bait Al Gahwa and House of Artisans Abu Dhabi are located at Al Hosn site and House of Artisans of Al Ain is included in the Al Ain Oasis landscape.

The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi has supported in past years the inscription of nine Intangible Cultural Heritage elements on UNESCO’s Intangible Cultural Heritage lists.

Al-Sadu, Al-Ayyala, Al-Razfa, Al-Azi, Arabic coffee (Gahwa), Falconry, Majlis and Al-Taghrooda, with the Palm Tree the latest element, inscribed in 2019. The Culture Sector aims to inscribe six additional Intangible Cultural Heritage elements.

Culture Sector has initiated the first phase development of the Abu Dhabi Historic Environment Record (ADHER) as a comprehensive geospatial database of Abu Dhabi’s historic environment. By 2024, all sites noted on the map will be entered into ADHER.

The Sector developed in co-operation with many other Abu Dhabi stakeholders the Culture and Creative Industries framework strategy.

The Culture and Creative Industries (CCI) are among the fastest growing economic sectors in the world today, and the sector is growing fastest in the Middle East. In 2019, the Culture Sector developed a 5-year culture and creative industries strategy, working in collaboration with key sector partners. The Strategy seeks to strengthen Abu Dhabi’s position as a globally recognised centre of creative talent and a leading regional producer and exporter of creative and cultural content.

Five strategic pillars provide a framework for recommended initiatives to be implemented over the term of the Strategy – Governance, Talent, Innovation, Business Development and Place. While DCT Abu Dhabi will lead the implementation of the Strategy in the emirates of Abu Dhabi, the majority of initiatives will be implemented by sector partners. The vision is to position CCI as a critical contributor to liveability and vitality in the community, and to economic development and diversification, including job creation.

The Sector started in 2019 the CultureSTATS-ABU DHABI project that aims to be a knowledge platform that produces internationally recognisable and comparable cultural statistics in the emirate of Abu Dhabi. By structuring pre-existing cultural data and by exploring the new approaches to data collection and analysis, the project seeks to understand how to enhance the impact of culture and cultural assets on the social and economic growth of Abu Dhabi, and how to discover, analyse and support cultural phenomena that makes Abu Dhabi unique.

The 14th session of the Intergovernmental Committee for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of UNESCO, held in the Colombian capital of Bogota on 2 December 2019, approved the inscription of date palm on the UNESCO’s Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of UNESCO. This was the result of efforts made by the Department of Culture and Tourism – Abu Dhabi to promote and preserve the cultural heritage of the emirate of Abu Dhabi and ensure its sustainability and transmit it to future generations. The Department had submitted the date palm file to be registered with UNESCO as a joint nomination on behalf of 14 Arab countries headed by the United Arab Emirates. This was carried out under the auspices of the Arab League Educational, Cultural and Scientific Organization (ALECSO). Notably, between 2010 and 2019, the Department of Culture and Tourism – Abu Dhabi successfully registered nine elements of Emirati cultural heritage in UNESCO’s Representative List of Intangible Cultural Heritage. These include Al-Sadu, Al-Ayyala, Al-Razfa, Al-Azi, Arabic coffee (Gahwa), Falconry, Majlis, Al-Taghrooda and lastly the Palm Tree.
Qasr Al Watan (‘Palace of the Nation’) opened its doors to the public in March 2019. The Presidential Palace is a unique testament to the spirit of the people of the United Arab Emirates and its leaders. The palace celebrates Arab heritage, architecture and artistry and invites visitors to be introduced to the UAE culture, knowledge and the nation’s inspiring journey. The interactive exhibits illustrate and provide information on governance, knowledge and craftsmanship in the United Arab Emirates and the wider Arab world.

Qasr Al Watan Library is one of the key components of the Qasr Al Watan and it reflects the United Arab Emirates vision, to promote and sustain development through investment in minds and human resources. The library is an impressive addition to the public library network in the emirate, which provides knowledge sources through the latest technology and techniques. The library has a large collection of knowledge resources collected over a span of 35 years, covering history, geography and the social, economic and political development of the nation. A series of panel discussions and musical performances, stimulated dialogue and knowledge exchange, supported by the ‘Award-Winning Author’, ‘Cross-Border Literature’ and ‘Creative Pens’ programmes.
The Church and Monastery on Sir Bani Yas Island, the first Christian site discovered in the UAE, reopened its doors to visitors in May 2019, following the implementation of conservation measures and site enhancements by the Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi.

In the early 1990s a church, a monastery and a series of courtyard houses were discovered on the eastern side of Sir Bani Yas Island. Dating to the 7th and 8th centuries CE, these buildings are the earliest known evidence for Christianity in the United Arab Emirates. The church was identified by the presence of plaster crosses and its plan, which resembles ancient churches known from elsewhere in the Arabian Gulf.

Hundreds of artifacts found at the site reveal that the people exploited the sea for food and also kept cattle, sheep and goats. Glass and ceramic objects indicate that they traded widely across the Arabian Gulf and into the Indian Ocean. The most important finds are plaster stucco fragments that originally decorated the outside and inside of the church. Fine plaster stucco panels were also used within the interiors of the church as decorative and architectural design elements.

Similar churches to the one found on Sir Bani Yas are known from other areas in the Arabian Gulf. It is believed that these places were linked by trade and monasticism and were part of the Church of the East. The church and monastery continued to exist after Islam became the main religion in the region in the 7th century CE. This reflects the belief in tolerance and acceptance practised by the early Islamic leaders of the time, and which continues till today.

In 2018, Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi began the design and implementation of a new sheltering solution that would ensure optimum protection of the site’s archaeological remains from current environmental threats, minimise visual and physical impact on the archaeological remains, and enhance the visitor experience. With the inauguration of this new shelter in 2019, sections of the monastery never seen before are now visible to the public. These remains, mostly of the northern dormitory, provide an understanding of daily life in the monastery. All the exposed archaeological remains were stabilised, repaired, and consolidated and an ongoing programme of monitoring has been initiated.
The Modern Heritage Conservation Initiative aims to identify, evaluate and assess the significance and condition of Abu Dhabi’s post-oil heritage and to develop recommendations, guidelines, policies and incentives to celebrate, protect and maintain the recent history of urban development of Abu Dhabi.

An application and web-based database were developed to enable the field survey and evaluation process to support the inventory of Abu Dhabi’s modern heritage.

CONSERVATION OF THE FIRST MODERN HERITAGE SITE IN ABU DHABI

Opened in 1981 under the directives of the late Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan, the Cultural Foundation was the United Arab Emirates’ first multi-purpose cultural centre, a public institution with a mandate to foster and nurture cultural consciousness for all citizens of the recently unified emirates. Designed in the 1970s by Walter Gropius’s firm The Architects Collaborative, the Cultural Foundation’s modern landmark building was the first registered modern heritage site to be rehabilitated between 2009 and 2018 according to international best practice. It underwent extensive conservation measures including repairs, rehabilitation and some adaptive reuse. It was successfully re-opened on 4 September 2019 to fulfil its mission as the transformative, stimulating and participatory platform for arts and creativity within the heart of Abu Dhabi.
The Cultural Foundation launched a cutting-edge visual arts programme of exhibitions that focus on contemporary and modern art from the United Arab Emirates, the region and internationally. As part of the Foundation’s mission to foster and promote creativity, spaces have been dedicated to host community exhibitions, children exhibitions and art residencies. The Cultural Foundation launched a world-class, contemporary and home-grown performing arts programme in its newly renovated 900-seat theatre. It has transformed its library to become the Abu Dhabi Children’s Library. This state-of-art facility offers innovative hands-on learning programmes for children and families.

An annual programme of cultural initiatives was created to celebrate Al Ain sites and engage the community in the mission of each of the World Heritage city cultural sites.

The late Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan, Founding Father and first President of the United Arab Emirates, lived at Al Ain Palace until 1966, when he moved to Abu Dhabi as the emirate’s new ruler. Built in 1937 in Al Ain’s traditional architectural style, the palace is associated with Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan’s 20 years-story as Ruler’s Representative in Al Ain. It stands witness to the great transformations that the oasis city went through from the middle of the experience Emirati life in the past, the former residence of Abu Dhabi’s Royal Family and the emirate’s culture and history, through interactive programmes and experiences.
Freej Laowl ‘our old neighbourhoods’ programme brought to life the pre-oil Al Ain city neighbourhood from the 1960s and early 1970s, through a series of performances on tradition, marriage customs and voluntary educational system. The 1970s until the early 1990s period was represented through storytelling, traditional performances, games, food, screenings and competitions, in palm leaves houses as part of the Weekends at the Palace programme.

As part of the ‘Year of Tolerance’ initiatives run by the Department, the Cultural Connection programme emphasised the importance of peaceful co-existence in the United Arab Emirates, as well its multiculturalism, freedom and security, through discussions about traditional performing arts by representatives from the United Arab Emirates, Egypt, Lebanon, Palestine, India, Kenya and Russia.
Qasr Al Muwaiji is the birthplace of His Highness Sheikh Khalifa bin Zayed Al Nahyan, President of the United Arab Emirates, in 1948. The museum is located within the boundaries of the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Al Ain, offering visitors a variety of historical and traditional experiences.
Falconry Hunting Trip introduced the sport and its practices to families, through cultural and educational activities, including workshops on falconry and Arabic coffee, Al-Ayyala performances and documentaries on falconry. The musical Shadow Show with the music academy Bait Al Oud celebrated the “Year of Tolerance”, and was accompanied by melodies from different cultures, representing co-existence and friendship values shared by people in the United Arab Emirates. The Emirati Dagger programme provided information and answers that revolve around the materials used in making daggers, the different colours and styles, and how it differs from the ones made in other GCC countries.
Al Jahili Fort is one of the largest traditional forts in Al Ain. The different elements of this ancient mud-brick fortification provide a strong physical and visual link to important local and regional events in both the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Today, the fort’s prominent location at the centre of Al Ain city and its landmark status have come to symbolise the traditional architecture and cultural heritage of Abu Dhabi. Al Jahili Fort enjoys special significance, as it is strongly associated with Sheikh Zayed bin Khalifa Al Nahyan, also known as Zayed the First, who ruled from 1855 to 1909. The construction of Al Jahili Fort began during his reign in 1891 and was completed by 1898.
Celebrating the Year of Tolerance, Al Jahili Fort welcomed visitors to the Cultural Diversity programme that offered educational workshops, traditional crafts and performances, culinary arts and activities from different countries. The Military Collectibles narrated the story of Trucial Scouts in Al Ain from 1955, when Al Jahili Fort was their headquarters. Objects from the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s were loaned by Abu Dhabi Armed Forces Museum and Military History Centre. Al Jahili Through Young Eyes exhibition showed student artworks inspired by their visits to the fort.
Zayed National Museum, the national museum of the United Arab Emirates, will narrate the rich history of the land and region and will tell the story of the Founding Father, the late Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan, his unification of the Emirates and the country’s long-standing cultural connections across the world. A museum for the whole community, Zayed National Museum will tell stories inspired by Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan’s strongly held values, and will be a centre of learning, discussion and exchange.

Collections

In 2019, Zayed National Museum acquired 15 objects, received 9 donations and instigated 3 major commissions. National partnerships were developed by providing project updates to potential lenders and stakeholders. Work began on identifying and securing loans with international lenders. Zayed National Museum reached out to cultural institutions, heritage experts and individuals to familiarise them with the museum and to set the foundations for future collaborations. During the visits, oral history interviews were conducted and objects that could be donated towards the collection for the museum.

Public engagement programme

Zayed National Museum visited schools to introduce students to the different narratives and objects of museum, through an engaging educational programme. This offered a range of interactive activities related to the museum’s galleries, tailored to inspire children to become future museum ambassadors. A workshop was given on traditional doll making using simple materials which would have been available at the time, to introduce students to the different traditional crafts in Emirati heritage. Students created their own dolls, using fabric, cotton and coloured threads.
The first universal museum in the Arab world and the first new universal museum in the 21st century, Louvre Abu Dhabi opened its doors in November 2017. By the time the museum had celebrated its second anniversary, it had welcomed more than two million visitors from across the world.

Alongside its world-class international exhibitions and innovative programming, Louvre Abu Dhabi’s unique permanent collection and display tell a history of the world through artistic objects. These contribute to making the museum an attractive destination for tourists and residents alike.
Set in Jean Nouvel’s breathtaking architectural masterpiece, which, in the short time of its existence, has become one of the most famous museum buildings in the world, Louvre Abu Dhabi’s main goal is to foster understanding and dialogue across cultures and civilisations.

The museum is also at the heart of Abu Dhabi’s vision to create a cultural, educational and touristic hub within the region. Its efforts have been celebrated globally through a variety of awards and more than 25,000 press mentions across the world in 2019.

Louvre Abu Dhabi’s 2019 mission followed three key pillars: collection and content, visitors and education, and operational excellence.

In 2019, Louvre Abu Dhabi announced its acquisition of Rembrandt’s Head of a Young Man in Prayer (c. 1655).

The announcement achieved widespread praise in international and local press. The Italian national newspaper Il Sole 24 Ore commented that, through “this latest acquisition, the first of Rembrandt to enter a collection of museums in the Gulf, visitors will experience the power of his first-hand creations”, while the United Arab Emirates-based daily newspaper The National described it as “a key acquisition for Louvre Abu Dhabi”.

Rembrandt’s small but captivating work epitomises the museum’s pioneering role in being the first museum in the Gulf to own a work by the Dutch master, as well as its quest for excellence demonstrated by its acquisition of a rare work by one of the most renowned artists in Western art history.

Complementing its ever-growing permanent collection, the museum received 418 loans from its 13 French partner institutions as well as 36 from its new regional and international partners, highlighting its increasing role as a global hub for art and culture. Through a number of partnerships with United Arab Emirates-based and other regional countries, the museum was able to secure loans from Dubai, Ras Al Khaimah and Umm Al Quwain, as well as Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

Covering prehistoric times up to the 21st century, the new works in Louvre Abu Dhabi’s permanent display reinforce the museum’s universal narrative and ensure that each visitor, no matter where they are from, find a work that is relevant to them. In its second annual rotation of works in the permanent display, Louvre Abu Dhabi saw new narratives in the gallery halls, from the ‘strange and marvellous’ in Medieval art to a history of the ‘Grand Tour’ in Europe.

In a renewed focus on contemporary art in the United Arab Emirates, the Modern and Contemporary galleries saw three new works by renowned Emirati artist Mohammed Ahmed Ibrahim join their ranks. Following the rehang, the visitors’ journey through the history of humanity now ends with an immersive work by Austrian conceptual artist Susanna Fritscher. On loan from the Centre Pompidou, the work invites visitors to reflect on their own and other cultures as they wander around the installation.
Alongside its permanent display, Louvre Abu Dhabi hosts four international temporary exhibitions a year, which allow visitors to explore a certain period or topic in more depth.

Part of its 2018/19 cultural season ‘A World of Exchange’, the museum’s first exhibition in 2019 was ‘Rembrandt, Vermeer & the Dutch Golden Age: Masterpieces from the Leiden collection and the Musée du Louvre’, from 14 February to 18 May 2019. The success and international interest in the exhibition led to nearly 1,000 press articles from across the world in 11 languages.

‘Photographs 1842–896: An Early Album of the World’, in partnership with Musée du quai Branly, ran from 25 April to 13 July 2019, achieving more than 450 articles, with 100 from the Gulf Cooperation Council area alone.

Entitled ‘Changing Societies’, the museum’s 2019/20 cultural season explores key turning points in history and how these have influenced or manifest themselves in the creative output of their time.

The first in the current cultural season was ‘Rendez-vous in Paris: Picasso, Chagall, Modigliani & Co (1900-1939)’, held in partnership with Centre Pompidou from 18 September to 7 December 2019, which saw coverage in more than 12 markets. ‘10,000 Years of Luxury’ also opened its doors to the public, in a partnership with Musée des Arts Décoratifs in Paris which ran from 18th October 2019 to 18th February 2020. The exhibition has received press across 17 markets to date including BBC World and the New York Times.

This year also saw the opening of the second exhibition in Louvre Abu Dhabi’s Children’s Museum. ‘A Costume Adventure’ combines multimedia technology with interactive experiences for families, inviting children to engage with real objects. This new exhibition has received more than 80,000 visitors since its opening on 9 July 2019.

Since Louvre Abu Dhabi’s opening, one of its goals was to achieve a balance between local, regional and global visitors. Louvre Abu Dhabi’s visitor barometer, an innovative research tool, records and analyses visitor data, allowing the museum to study public visitor figures year-round.

Louvre Abu Dhabi has become a must-see highlight in the city. The museum’s visitor figures for 2019 saw about 70 per cent international and regional tourists, and 30 per cent Emiratis and residents. International visitors come from all over the world, with the top recorded visitors originating from China, India, France, the United Kingdom, the United States, Russia, Germany and South Korea.

In 2019, Emiratis were the top group of repeat visitors to Louvre Abu Dhabi, which speaks to the museum’s success with the local community. Most Emirati visitors came from Abu Dhabi and Dubai. The average time spent in the museum is 2 hours and 20 minutes and overall visitor satisfaction has been measured at 93 per cent.
Louvre Abu Dhabi’s quest is to be as inclusive as possible, and the museum prides itself on being fully accessible and a welcoming experience for everyone.

The volunteers were invited to assist during events and activities as well as to support the Visitors Experience team inside the museum.

2019 saw the launch of Louvre Abu Dhabi’s ‘Young Guides: Museum Voices’ programme, allowing children from different schools across the United Arab Emirates to learn how to present to and educate a museum-going audience about the artworks on display.

In addition to the museum’s work with schools, Louvre Abu Dhabi offers programmes dedicated to university students, as well as special programmes for children with its organisation of monthly family weekends.

Numerous learning resources are provided to children and adult visitors as well as people of determination to help them better understand and engage with the works on show. Multimedia guides, activity booklets, art kits and online resources are just some of the many tools provided to visitors.

Education is one of the key missions of Louvre Abu Dhabi and an important element in the museum’s quest to create a cultural ecosystem. In 2019, the museum welcomed more than 43,000 students from across the United Arab Emirates.

As part of Louvre Abu Dhabi’s quest to establish itself as a key member of the international cultural community, the museum staff participated in 19 conferences across the globe, including seven in the United Arab Emirates and others in Asia, Europe and the United States.

As part of this outreach programme, Louvre Abu Dhabi also undertook five government school roadshows, a university roadshow as well as ten government entity roadshows.

In 2019, the museum hosted 60 private events for corporate and government partners at the museum, including conferences, evening receptions and gala dinners. In total, the museum welcomed 507 diplomatic and VIP visits.

Education outreach and community engagement are part of Louvre Abu Dhabi’s key missions. Throughout 2019, Louvre Abu Dhabi presented a variety of cultural programming, from musical performances under the dome to creative workshops, as well as film screenings, curatorial conferences and panel discussions.

All programming aims to complement the works on show in the permanent display and temporary exhibitions, and serve to entertain and educate the museum’s visitors as well as the wider Abu Dhabi community.

Al Hosn
The original urban block of the city of Abu Dhabi, witness to its evolution from a traditional pearling settlement to a modern global metropolis.
Transformed into a museum in 2018 following more than eleven years of intensive conservation and restoration work, Qasr Al Hosn is a national monument that encapsulates the development of Abu Dhabi from a settlement reliant on fishing and pearling in the 18th century, to a modern, global metropolis, with displays of artefacts and archival materials dating back to as far as 6,000 BCE. Comprising of two major iconic buildings: The Inner Fort (originally constructed in 1795) and the Outer Palace (1939-45), they are major reference points to the history of Abu Dhabi, telling the story of the city, its people, their history and modern heritage.

Over the centuries, it has been home to the ruling family, the seat of government, a consultative council and a national archive; it now stands as the nation’s living memorial and the narrator of Abu Dhabi’s history, providing insights into the lives of who lived there; and the story of the conservation and restoration of the fort’s structures. This story is brought to life by media ranging from artefacts, archival materials, audio-visuals and interactive experiences.

The programme of Qasr Al Hosn is designed to promote this narrative through a wide range of events and activations, as well as serve as a platform to celebrate the intangible heritage of the United Arab Emirates by highlighting elements on UNESCO’s Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity, offering demonstrations and performances of Al-Ayyala, Al-Razfa, Majlis, Gahwa, Al-Taghruda, Falconry and marine traditions.

National Consultative Council building is a symbol of the federalisation and unity of the United Arab Emirates, while the House of Artisans promotes and preserves the intangible heritage of the nation. The Cultural Foundation was the country’s first cultural centre and became the home of cultural and social life in modern Abu Dhabi.
House of Artisans aims to sustain and promote Emirati culture and heritage to protect and support the intangible heritage of the United Arab Emirates, the traditional Emirati handicrafts and the artisans who practice them, by bringing traditional crafts to the heart of contemporary culture through a programme designed to encourage knowledge transfer, promote cross-cultural collaborations.

The crafts represented in House of Artisans, celebrate the creative and artistic relationship between the people of the United Arab Emirates and the locally available natural resources. Because of the United Arab Emirates’ diverse landscapes – from the desert, to the oases, to the coast and sea, artisans have developed skills to meet functional and economic needs. Passed from generation to generation, this intangible heritage now preserves not only the practical skills but also the shared social values associated with Emirati identity.

Opened in 2011, Al Qattara Arts Centre was developed around the earlier Bayt bin Ati Al Darmaki, a traditional mud-brick tower and house located on a mound overlooking the date palm gardens of Qattara Oasis. Qattara Archaeological Basement is a permanent multimedia exhibition, opened in 2018, presenting the archaeology revealed during the construction of the Arts Centre. With carefully restored traditional local architecture, the centre’s mandate is to provide a venue where arts and culture can be studied, practised and developed by the community. The centre organises a year-long public engagement programme to nurture the artistic scene and to develop talent.
The sixth edition of Ramsah, New York University Abu Dhabi’s Emirati dialect course was hosted by the Al Qattara Arts Centre. Eleven students pledged to communicate exclusively in Emirati Arabic for three weeks. The course aimed to provide an immersive experience for students. During the three weeks, the students lived with Emirati families, met Emirati artists and prepared a performance in the Emirati dialect.

Two artists were each offered free space for two months to create a collection of two to four artworks inspired by the city of Al Ain. They each curated two workshops and the resulting artworks were shown in a small exhibition to showcase people’s artistic achievements at the centre. The programme supported Emirati artists and allowed the artists in residence to share their experiences. The artists in residence were Hamdan Buti Al Shamsi and Saud Al Dhaheri, both born in Al Ain.

A family-oriented programme to create artistic engagement for the whole family, allowing them to gather and share artworks. The programme promoted Al Qattara Arts Centre to the community. People of determination were also invited to join the event, in co-operation with the Al Ain Centre for Care and Rehabilitation.

The Al Qattara Cinema programme introduced audiences and film fans to independent films from the region and the Arab world. CULTURAL HERITAGE

CHAPTER 4
In December 2015, Arabic coffee, or Gahwa, was inscribed on UNESCO’s Representative List of Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity. The 6th National Traditional Handicrafts Festival was held from 30 October to November 16, 2019 at Al Qattara Heritage Souq in Al Ain. The festival is part of the strategy adopted by the Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi to preserve vital components of Emirati cultural heritage, especially heritage associated with traditional crafts and industries. In 2019, the festival supported the promotion of date palm products through the exhibition of dates and the tools used to care for them. 120 practicing families were given support through exhibiting and marketing their traditional products to more than 105,000 visitors who attended this year. The festival also featured a variety of cultural events and activities to help in preserving Emirati cultural heritage and transmitting it to future generations. Featured events and activities included traditional performances such as Al-Ayyala, Al-Razfa and Al-Azi, in addition to educational workshops for children on traditional crafts and industries such as Al-Sadu, wicker weaving and pottery. There were also workshops to introduce falconry and ways of developing the skills of young generations in this traditional sport. A number of poetry evenings were also held in order to highlight traditional Emirati literature.
ARCHAEOLOGICAL DISCOVERIES

Marawah Island

Discovered in 1992, the Neolithic settlement of Marawah continues to reveal new secrets. Radiocarbon dating shows that the site was occupied around 8,000 to 6,500 years ago. In the most recent excavation, two areas have been focused upon. In Area A, excavations revealed part of a nearly 8,000-year-old stone tri-partite building. It was within this building that the Marawah vessel, now displayed in the Louvre Abu Dhabi was found. In 2019, a multi room building was further investigated in Area B. Two pearls had been previously found in this building. The better-preserved example known as the ‘Abu Dhabi Pearl’ was displayed in the ‘10,000 Years of Luxury’ exhibition at Louvre Abu Dhabi and is now part of the touring exhibit to soon appear in the Musée des Arts Décoratifs in Paris.

The results so far obtained from the Marawah excavations provide valuable new insights into the architecture and planning of Arabian Neolithic settlements in the region, as well as the earliest known evidence for pearling. In combination with the discoveries from Ghagha island, a new chapter is being written in our understanding of Abu Dhabi’s cultural heritage.

Ghagha Island

In 2019, excavations and survey began on Ghagha island as part of a Capital Project to produce a Site Master Plan for the whole island. This work includes the investigation of key archaeological sites to develop a better understanding of the chronology and characterisation of human settlement on the island, as well as the conservation and restoration of the traditional houses located on the southern and north-western coasts. The investigations of one of the archaeological sites revealed a highly significant prehistoric site of national importance. Excavations at site GHG0014 revealed a structure with at least three phases, consisting of a Neolithic stone-built multi-celled structure, followed by a later burial of a juvenile which possibly dates to the Bronze Age, followed by a Late Islamic stone cairn mound. Radiocarbon samples from this site indicate the original building dates as early as 6,500 BCE. This makes it the earliest stone structure building yet discovered in the United Arab Emirates. This discovery combines with evidence from islands like Marawah, to indicate that there is a distinct Neolithic culture, located on the islands of Abu Dhabi, which includes the earliest known villages in the Arabian Gulf. These pioneering settlements appear to be focused on utilizing the rich economic resources of the Arabian Gulf for both sustenance and trade. Continuing work on these sites has the potential to fundamentally alter our perspective of early human history in the Arabian Gulf and beyond.
HUDAYRIAT ISLAND SURVEY

In advance of development of the island by Modon Properties, a comprehensive archaeological survey and mapping was carried out of Hudayriat Island between 2017 and 2019. This provided an opportunity to balance the need for preserving archaeological sites with the desire to develop the island into a residential and leisure destination. A series of more than 20 well-preserved pearl oyster shell middens with associated Late Islamic period pottery were discovered on the south coast of the island. These represent traces of historic settlement on the island when the population was involved with pearling, one of the traditional economic activities of Abu Dhabi. The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi has been working with Modon, Hilalco and the Department of Municipalities and Transport to ensure the protection of these sites and to advise on the proposed heritage trail for future visitors. This will allow people to visit the sites and understand more about the importance of pearling in Abu Dhabi’s recent past.

AL AIN: UNESCO WORLD HERITAGE SITE

Hili 2

Hili 2 is part of the UNESCO World Heritage Site in Al Ain. It consists of several well-preserved Iron Age (c. 1000 BCE) houses. A project to conserve and present the site to the public was initiated in 2019. To help this goal, archaeologists carried out several excavations in 2018 and 2019. These revealed new details in the structures’ construction techniques, including the finger impressions to bond the bricks and the mortar. In addition to Iron Age ceramics, a stamp seal depicted the clear impression of a gazelle. Of particular note was the discovery of several complete Iron Age tannours, or clay cooking ovens. This information will provide the framework to further expand our understanding of not only Hili 2 but also the construction and function of Iron Age settlements within the United Arab Emirates. The project also serves as an exemplar of how archaeology and conservation complement each other to provide opportunities for public engagement with important cultural remains.
HILI 14

Hili 14 is one of the largest Iron Age fortified settlements in the United Arab Emirates, forming a core component of the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Al Ain. It had been noted as an important archaeological site already in the 1980s but remained un-investigated. In 2019, research began at the site so as to determine its function and its relationship to nearby archaeological sites. Using technologies that were unavailable in the 1980s, the extent remains of the site were mapped, and targeted excavations were carried out at several locations. These revealed a well-preserved building. Excavations and survey away from the site indicated the existence of several previously undiscovered buildings. A picture is now emerging of a 3,000-year-old village which is connected with the nearby ancient falaj system. In revealing more on the history of settlement, falaj irrigation, and agriculture the excavations are thus playing an important role in augmenting emphasising a key feature of the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Al Ain.

AL NAQFA

Situated immediately to the south of Al Ain Oasis, Al Naqfa Ridge is a component of the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Al Ain. Archaeological investigations in 2004 revealed the remains of Islamic period fortifications at the northern end of the ridge. An initial survey of the site identified significant quantities of Islamic period and Iron Age II period pottery. Fieldwork started in February 2019 with the aim of gaining a greater understanding of when the site was first settled. In particular, excavations sought to identify secure prehistoric deposits and to assess their relationship to the more recent occupation. The work is on-going but will illuminate shifting patterns of land use on the edge of the Al Ain oasis over a period of three millennia and further enrich the historical narrative of the oasis and its associated settlement.
The historic Al Ain Oasis sprawls across 3,000 acres and provides a unique insight into the region’s inhabitants who began taming the desert 4,000 years ago. The Al Ain Oasis has been a UNESCO World Heritage Site since 2011, but only recently, with the construction of an educational eco-centre and an extensive system of shaded pathways that wind through some 147,000 date palms, is it open to the public. The site houses up to 100 different varieties of vegetation that surround the impressive oasis, with widespread plantations that are also working farms.

WEEKENDS AT THE OASIS

Running throughout the winter months, this popular weekend programme features a variety of engaging programmes for visitors that raise awareness of the importance of Al Ain Oasis as part of a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

HANDICRAFTS AT THE OASIS

Run by the oasis artisans, this programme highlighted different community handicrafts in and around the oasis. Held every Wednesday, students participated in hands-on handicraft workshops and guided tours of the Oasis.

AGRICULTURE PRACTICES AT THE OASIS

This weekly programme for students highlights the important role the Oasis plays in the history of the city. Activities included the study of plants and seeds, the ancient falaj irrigation system, agricultural practices, and social life in the oasis. It also raised awareness of Emirati traditions in general, particularly those central to the fabric of Al Ain’s community.

CONSERVATION Cycles 2019

Conservation cycles are the Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi’s management model to plan, implement, follow up and report on all the conservation sites actions within Abu Dhabi. Every year, two conservation cycles are implemented across the emirate based on the assessment done at the beginning of each cycle and include holistic conservation and task-based interventions.

Holistic Conservation and Task-based Conservation

Holistic conservation aims to implement comprehensive curative and preventive measures to the site with possibility to open it to public.

Task-based conservation deals with a particular case or issue on a cultural heritage site, based on emergency, urgency and needs through applying a specific and targeted curative or preventive measures.

2019 Conservation Works

Holistic conservation completed on 4 sites

Holistic conservation began in 8 sites, to be completed in 2020

Task-based conservation completed on 16 sites with 80 conservation tasks
Located to the south west beyond the walls of Al Jahili Fort, the mosque is probably contemporary with the inner fort built by Sheikh Zayed the First at the end of the nineteenth century. The mosque, in its entirety, reflects the traditional style of the historic mosques in the Al Ain area, which are characterised by their simplicity. The mosque comprises a single room with an open arcade on the eastern side and can be entered from an enclosed courtyard. Within the courtyard stands a low platform from which the call to prayer was made, along with a small room, which was originally probably used for ritual ablutions. The historic fabric of the building survives intact below a new layer of mud plaster added during its conservation process. The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi completed repairs and restoration of the building. Ablutions, lighting and cooling were also introduced. In 2019, the mosque was opened officially to the community for prayer.

CONSERVATION OF AL JAHILI MOSQUE

The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi organised a workshop on Historic Urban Landscape, with the participation of local and international archaeologists and heritage experts. The aim of the workshop was to enhance the efforts of heritage conservation operations, by merging and consolidating joint endeavours between the various agencies working in the field of preserving Al Ain Cultural Sites listed on the UNESCO World Heritage List. The Historic Urban Landscape methodology promotes the concept that cultural and natural heritage should lead the process of modernisation and development in cities through coordination between all bodies and institutions responsible for setting and implementing development plans. The application of the methodology has resulted in many benefits, including improved economic and societal conditions, increased competitiveness, sustainable development that takes into account the needs of all segments of the population, and encouraging the participation of all stakeholders in the planning and development process. It also stresses the inclusion of culture and heritage in the mainstream planning initiatives and the use of this methodology as a compass for future development in Al Ain. The main incentive for this methodology is to find a way to reconcile the need for the protection of archaeological sites with urban development in historic cities.
The number of objects in the collections that are on EMu has been increased with the creation of 12,475 new records during the year. There have also been 440,760 individual record updates. These figures include extensive numbers of objects from the archaeology, manuscripts and photographic and archive collections that have been added to the collections management system. Axiell Go, a portable version of EMu in the form of a mobile phone compatible interface has been rolled out, as has a process of bar coding to improve collections location recording for objects in storage.

The Ronald Codrai collection of historical photographs comprises more than 4,500 images, taken throughout the United Arab Emirates area in the years between 1945 and 1954. These images have been digitised and added to EMu (DCT Abu Dhabi’s collections management database).

Once the images are digitised and uploaded on the collections management database with the associated details and information, they can be readily accessed by researchers, curators and cultural practitioners. They can also be promptly and easily used in exhibitions to produce graphics, as well as publications, without any additional processes or consultations. It is also an essential tool to document and preserve the tangible and intangible cultural heritage of Abu Dhabi.
CULTURAL PROGRAMMES

CHAPTER 5
The cultural platforms stimulate creativity as a driver for education and social change. This is achieved through a multi-disciplinary public engagement programme offering an art fair and extended visual arts programme, alongside platforms for performing arts; classical music programmes; Culture Summit and festivals.
ABU DHABI ART

ABU DHABI ART FAIR
20-23 NOVEMBER 2019

Abu Dhabi Art expands beyond the scope of a traditional art fair through its diverse public engagement programme, including art installations and exhibitions, talks and events throughout the year in the Emirate of Abu Dhabi. The culmination of this year-long programme is the annual Abu Dhabi Art Fair in November, which provides an important sales platform for participating galleries, while also offering them an opportunity to showcase ambitious installations and site-specific works by their artists to a wide audience.

2019 saw the introduction of two new curated gallery sections at the fair that focused on specific geographies, with commercial gallery booths presenting key emerging and established artists from China and India. The guest curated sections drew new audiences, provided thoughtfully curated commercial gallery booths for collectors in attendance and signposted a strategic new focus on visual arts from East and South Asia. Abu Dhabi Art's year-round programme included a curated exhibition with works on loan for the first time from the Al Ain Museum alongside contemporary artists.

To activate important heritage sites and engage contemporary artists meaningfully in these places, Abu Dhabi Art commissioned Oliver Beer and Leandro Erlich in 2019 to create site-specific works in exhibition for two months in Abu Dhabi and Al Ain. Oliver Beer studied both music and fine art which led to his interest in the relationship between sound and space and the voice of architecture. His installation at UNESCO World Heritage Site of Al Ain Oasis, Al Jahili Fort and Qasr Al Hosn was created in collaboration with over 2,000 children from across Abu Dhabi. The exhibition referenced anthropologist Joseph Campbell’s text ‘Hero with a Thousand Faces’, a comparative mythology questioning the shared narratives to be found across different cultures. Leandro Erlich is a conceptual artist whose work explores the perceptual bases of reality and our capacity to interrogate these same foundations through a visual framework. His installation “The Heart of Water” combines the delicate ephemeral beauty of a cloud with the more rugged play of the surrounding areesh structure and its natural environment, the Al Ain Oasis.

BAYREUTH FESTIVAL – THE VALKYRIE

For the first time since its launch in 1876, the legendary Bayreuth Festival travelled outside Germany, presenting not only its orchestra but also its singing cast and artistic vision, in a performance under the supervision of Bayreuth Festival Director and great-granddaughter of Richard Wagner, Katharina Wagner.

The two performances at Emirates Palace in the city of Abu Dhabi, marked an artistic milestone, not only for Abu Dhabi Classics, but also for Wagner’s music and the classical music world in general. The opera chosen was Wagner’s Die Walküre (The Valkyrie), the second of the four works that constitute the epic Ring of the Nibelung. The Bayreuth Festival Orchestra played under the direction of Markus Poschner, with the singing cast of the Bayreuth Festival. The performances also marked the world premiere of the Valkyrie-film from director Katharina Wagner, bringing Wagner’s mythological world to life.

The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi fosters reading among all members of society, regardless of nationalities, by providing access to the latest books and publications, in both Arabic and English. These are organised by community members who decide on their topics, themes and book titles and are supported by the libraries, who provide the space and books. The clubs have between five and 30 members.

The Little Writer in the Big Book Competition, organised by the Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi, contributes to the Emirati cultural scene by motivating students to compete in story writing, enriching the imagination and empowering their mental and psychological capacities at this critical childhood stage. YEAR OF TOLERANCE

The United Arab Emirates declared 2019 as the Year of Tolerance to highlight the country’s status as a global capital for tolerance, and to emphasise tolerance as a universal concept and a sustainable institutional endeavour through legislation and policies.

The Year of Tolerance aimed to enrich the values of tolerance, dialogue, co-existence and openness to different cultures in society, especially among young people, and this will reflect positively on society as a whole.

A tolerant approach has been adopted by the UAE since it was established, making the country a bridge of communication between the people of the world and their various cultures, in an environment of openness and respect that rejects extremism and promotes co-existence.

This theme of tolerance is reflected in the legacy of the UAE’s Founding Father, the late Sheikh Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan, who exemplified the principles of co-existence with others and cooperation. The Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi organised and supported events and initiatives in 2019 to emphasize the value and significance of the Year of Tolerance.
SIR BANI YAS CHURCH AND MONASTERY REOPENING

The Church and Monastery on Sir Bani Yas Island, the first Christian site discovered in the UAE, reopened its doors to visitors following the implementation of conservation measures and site enhancements. The site, which dates back to the 7th and 8th centuries CE, is evidence of the longstanding tolerance to other cultures in the UAE.

PANELS DEBATING THE NOTION OF TOLERANCE

The Sheikh Zayed Book Award organised a panel discussion in Moscow to highlight the pivotal cultural role of Russian-Emirati cultural dialogue. The ‘Arab-Russian Cultural Dialogue’ event further aimed to introduce Russian audiences to Sheikh Zayed Book Award initiatives and attract further nominations to its annual award. At the ITB exhibition in Berlin, the Department of Culture and Tourism - Abu Dhabi had a dedicated wall on its stand for the Year of Tolerance.

The reach of Berklee Abu Dhabi will stretch far beyond Abu Dhabi itself, offering exceptional educational experiences and public performances for students from across the Middle East, Africa and South Asia, inspiring a new generation of globally-minded artists eager to use the power of the arts to create positive change in the world.
Culture and creative industries are now major drivers of economies around the globe and are widely recognised as a positive force for societies and economies. The transformation of cultural development and the cultural economy brings opportunities for the culture sector including driving down the costs of creating and distributing cultural products. Paradoxically, many practitioners in the culture and creative industries are less secure in their work. A key issue identified by numerous participants at Culture Summit Abu Dhabi 2019 was securing financial support in the face of rapid societal and economic change. In response to issues, the Culture Summit 2020 will bring cultural leaders and practitioners to Abu Dhabi to address ‘Cultural Economy and the Economy of Culture’, by proposing responses and solutions to urgent questions that touch on finding mechanisms to grow the cultural and creative industries to benefit countries globally, to develop viable and sustainable economic models for culture, and to debate proposed resolution to the disruption and transformation of the culture economy and the economy of culture.

Culture Summit 2020 partners include UNESCO, Guggenheim, Royal Academy of Arts, The Economist Events, Google, the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, Louvre Abu Dhabi, Emirates Diplomatic Academy and Berklee Abu Dhabi.
